CHILDREN INJURED IN BOUNCY CASTLE CRUSH

Parents watch in horror after attraction collapses at Town Park fair

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THREE children had to be treated by paramedics on Monday after a bouncy castle at a children's fair in Harlow Town Park suddenly deflated.

There were reports that children as young as three were trampled and crushed as parents jumped onto the giant inflatable to rescue their youngsters.

Officials from Harlow Council visited the fairground the following day and suggested a number of measures to improve safety. First aiders have been employed and will remain on site for the rest of the week and additional stewards have been recruited.

Improvements

A council spokesman told the Star yesterday (Wednesday): "The council has suggested several improvements to be made to the stewarding of the event, along with increasing the signage and moving some of the attractions to allow more space."

It is believed the incident happened while stewards were dealing with another incident at the fairground. One suggestion is that while they were away, too many children climbed on to the castle causing it to deflate.

HORROR SHOW: The remains of the collapsed bouncy castle

Nicola Loder, whose children Evie and Oliver were caught up in the drama, said events unfolded "like something out of a horror film".

"It was the most horrific thing I have ever experienced," she said. "It was a miracle that no-one was killed."

Boom

Miss Loder, who lives in Harlow, said: "My children had gone onto the inflatable for a second time and I was talking to a friend when we suddenly heard a boom and noticed that the kids were all standing on one side.

"From then on it was a shambles. I went onto the castle as I was afraid my children were going to be crushed because there were some bigger children. Thankfully they were at the bottom of the slide so it was easier to get them."

Regeneration of housing estates now step closer

Signing of agreement paves way for 343 new homes

William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

PLANS to build more than 340 new homes by redeveloping three housing estates in Harlow have taken another step forward.

Under the proposals the three estates at Staple Tye - The Briars, Copshall Close and Aylets Field - will be completely revamped and regenerated to meet the demand for property within the town.

The current residents will be temporarily re-housed and will be given the option of moving back once the work is complete or staying where they are.

Some of the new properties will be available to rent while others will be put on the open market or offered for sale in a shared ownership basis.

The scheme includes replacing the current ageing bungalows which do not meet the Decent Homes Standard. It also includes new landscaping, roads and parking while a new community centre will be built and training opportunities offered to local people.

A development agreement has now

been signed by Harlow Council, Home Group and Countryside, ending a lengthy consultation period during which residents were involved in producing a design and development brief. A formal planning consultation period will now begin.

An opinion poll showed that the majority of residents fully supported the plans, with fewer than 10 per cent opposed to the project.

Drop-in sessions have also been held throughout the areas to discuss the proposals.

The work will be completed in three phases. During the first phase residents will be contacted for face-to-face meetings on how relocation will be carried out and given information on applying for alternative housing.

A council spokesman said: "The signing of the development agreement is a key milestone for the scheme which will now be submitted for planning permission."

"This redevelopment will help deliver the council's priorities to provide more and better housing and to regenerate Harlow."

A newsletter distributed to residents of The Briars, Aylets Field and Copshall Close gives detailed plans for landscaped parking courts and scenic garden squares.

Children injured in inflatable burst crush

■ From front page

"Children were screaming and crying, and people from all over the park heard the commotion. One boy had footmarks all over him."

Miss Loder said that one father helped to rescue some of the children by ripping open a netted section with a key.

Paramedics were sent to the scene and assessed the injuries of three young children.

Miss Loder vented her anger on Facebook and received more than 300 responses from people echoing her concerns.

One parent wrote: "My little girl will be scared for life now. If it wasn't for the guy who slashed it with his car keys I don't know what would have happened."

Supervised

Another posted: "Sounds like there were way too many children on there. Bouncy castles are supposed to be supervised at all times. It's lucky all parents were present and no children were left on."

The council spokesman said the fair was a private hire agreement between Great Parndon Community Association (GPCA) and Jon Carey Fun Fairs.

He added: "The council works closely with the GPCA, which provides an events service on behalf of the council, and the Town Park event programme is regularly reviewed and any issues considered."

"Although health and safety concerns are a matter for the Health & Safety Executive, the council does take health and safety matters seriously and will be revisiting the site to review the improvements."

A GPCA spokesperson said: "We did check there were the right number of stewards but unfortunately there was an incident elsewhere and the stewards were called away."

"There had been the right number of children on the castle but more came on when the stewards left and it was then not supervised."

Sex assault reports rise by one third in 12 months

THE number of serious sex crimes reported to police in Essex rose by almost a third last year.

Figures show that in the 12-month period ending in March, there were 1,913 offences compared to 1,446 in 2013-14.

While the increase was in line with the national trend, Essex Police and Crime Commissioner Nick Alston said it was disturbing that the number of reported offences had almost doubled in two years.

Analysis of the figures reveals that in both 2013-14 and 2014-15 there were more child victims than adult victims.

"On the face of it this is a surprising and disturbing finding and I've spoken further with specialist detectives," said Mr Alston. "They've told me national estimates suggest that up to 85 per cent of all sexual abuse has not been reported to police. In addition, detectives suspect that many adult victims of sexual abuse make a decision not to report the crime.

Stark

"But the stark reality is that in 2014-15 there were 985 serious sexual offences against children reported to Essex Police, of which 361 were rapes. This means that almost every single day, the rape of a child is being reported to Essex Police.

"One child rape is one too many but harm of this scale is highly distressing and has to be tackled. As a society, we must act to address this serious and shocking harm."

The figures also show that charges have been brought in 19 per cent of serious sexual offences against children and in 15 per cent against adults.

Mr Alston said: "My judgement is that the proportion of serious sexual offences where a person is charged is still low, and I am particularly concerned that only around one in every five serious sexual offences against a child results in charges being brought."

There has also been an increase in the reporting of "historic" sex offences which happened more than a year before it was reported.

Mystery blaze guts former social club

Derelict Maypole building demolished after fire

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

INVESTIGATIONS are under way into the cause of a blaze which gutted the former Maypole Sports and Social Club on Monday.

Firefighters were sent to the site of the derelict building at London Road in Harlow shortly after 4pm, when flames were seen coming from the roof of the 30m by 40m single-storey structure.

The damage was so severe that what remained of the building has been demolished to ensure the safety of the site.

Crews from Harlow and Sawbridge-worth tackled the inferno using two main jets, one hose reel jet and two ground monitors.

The incident commander, Assistant Divisional Officer Stephen Pritchard, said that by the time the crews arrived the building was already well alight.

"Thanks to their hard work and professionalism we managed to get on top of what was a large fire very quickly," he added.

Plume

A thick plume of black smoke was visible for miles around, with motorists on both the M11 and M25 tweeting comments on social media.

Firefighters remained at the scene into the evening, turning over and damping down the wreckage to ensuring all hotspots were dealt with.

A decision was taken to close a stretch of London Road between Gilden Way and Newhall on Tuesday.

The popular sports and social club was closed for the final time in 2013 after more than 50 years.

As well as club nights and sports screening, it hosted countless parties, wedding receptions and social gatherings, as well as being a venue for sports and fitness classes on the site.

In the aftermath of the fire, many residents shared their memories of the club on social media.

Posting on Facebook, Joan Aston wrote: "Played netball there for Maypole, we had a great team. Also watched my son play football there. So sad it's gone now but the good memories live on."

Louise Race added "Many a drink had there in my late teens and early 20s" while Chris Gifford said: "Some great pantomimes there for the kids at Christmas that both my boys enjoyed for a few years. Sad when it was closed, but this isn't a nice thing to see today."

The building was within an area of land which will become a new science park as part of the Harlow Enterprise Zone.

Harlow Council is currently in the process of appointing a partner for the development which will be used for research and development, office and some light industrial purposes, and is expected to create about 2,000 new jobs.

In addition, the site will accommodate some retail and restaurant/café/leisure facilities to support the main employment use.

Work on a new road through the site, linking the A414 to London Road and Newhall, is scheduled to start in the autumn.

An Essex County Fire Service spokesman said yesterday (Wednesday) that an investigation had been launched to establish whether the fire was started deliberately.

Our MP must represent all

SIR As John Wake correctly points out, Robert Halfon's re-election does not prove the policies he espouses are fair or just (Letters, May 21).

Mr Halfon has been apparently a good constituency MP and he received more votes than any other individual candidate and hence is to be congratulated, according to the present rules, as the representative of Harlow in the House of Commons. But his real task there is to hold the Government to account in the interests of all the people of Harlow, not simply the 21,623 who voted for him.

More than this number – 22,626 – voted for a different candidate and a further 23,743 didn't vote for any candidate at all. So the most he can claim is that he had the support of less than one in three of the registered electorate.

His election, therefore, does not give him anything like a mandate to support the Government on all its policies. He should be constantly mindful of the views of all the Harlow electorate and be held to account for his votes in Parliament in so far as they affect us all, not least the most vulnerable.

This is especially the case since the election campaign failed to address many of the most important issues facing the country.

Leaders of the main parties all colluded with each other on the need for austerity, despite the fact that we are one of the wealthiest countries of the world, and failed to address the real problem that 90 per cent of the nation's wealth is in the hands of 10 per cent of the population, who seem not only to be exempt from the austerity programme but to be actually increasing their wealth at the expense of us all.

Parking is a nightmare

SIR I am writing to complain about the parking in Harlow, especially around the schools.

I regularly collect my niece and nephew straight from work so I get there just after 3pm.

There is never anywhere to park. There are yellow lines around the school and then again towards the town so there is very limited space.

How am I meant to be there on time to pick up the children if there is nowhere to park? I have to use my car as I don't only come straight from work but also live by Bush Fair.

The council need to seriously start looking at Harlow's parking problems now. It's not fair to pigeon hole everyone and make it near on impossible to park anywhere.

Indication of bad driving

SIR I wonder if the drivers of Harlow know there is a switch called an indicator next to the steering wheels of most vehicles.

If you use them instead of just braking suddenly and turning right or left I might know where you are going.

Also, I like the back of my car so stop tailgating and back off. And as for music, how on earth can you concentrate with music blaring out like a disco?

How some drivers passed their driving test is beyond me. It seems everyone is in a hurry these days.

The one place we need a speed camera is Katharines Way which, late at night, is like a race track.

Proof Harlow has got talent

Well done to the organisers for putting on the event. The performers were superb, proving Harlow has got talent.

Don't fall ill on a bank holiday

SIR I had occasion to take my 27-month-old granddaughter to the out-of-hours doctor at Wych Elm at 8.45pm on Monday. She was diagnosed with tonsillitis and prescribed antibiotics.

I asked where the nearest late opening chemist was and was told that because it was a bank holiday it was Enfield or Gants Hill.

So be warned, don't fall ill in Harlow on a bank holiday.

Swan's death was accident

SIR Further to your story about the swan that was found dead on the River Stort towpath in Harlow (Star, May 14), I was walking my dogs one morning, when a woman walking towards me with her dog told me she had just seen a swan fly into the power cables overhead.

The swan had been set alight and was still burning as it came down. This happened a bit further on from The Moorhen pub and the lady was terribly upset.

I am sure this is the same swan and I just want to let readers know this may have been what happened. It wasn't killed by someone to be eaten, it was just a tragic accident.

I'm proud to volunteer

SIR As a volunteer at the Harlow Race For Life, I am writing to express thanks to more than 100 volunteer marshals who helped to make it run smoothly and safely.

Volunteers gave their time freely on the day in a variety of ways, from cheering on and directing participants, marking and setting up the course, marshalling, recruiting volunteers and much, much more.

Many Race For Life participants have expressed how the marshals throughout the course were strong motivators and a great encouragement during the race.

A special mention goes to s Garry and Marie Golder, who have been involved in the Race For Life in Harlow for 14 years and have given up a great deal of their time prior to each event in the organising and planning of the day.

Along with Garry and Marie, other volunteers were present on the site from 5am on the race day.

I am sure many will agree with me when I say I am proud to volunteer for such a key event and play my bit in what I hope contributes to building a better future. Together we will beat cancer.

Couple celebrating 60 years of marriage

A COUPLE who have lived in Harlow for more than five decades will celebrate their diamond wedding anniversary next week.

John and Lily Drewett, both 82, were married on June 4, 1955, three years after they first met at a dance in Tottenham on the day of the Queen's coronation. They moved to Spinning Wheel Mead in Harlow in 1960.

"The road was unmade, pavements were a work in progress and there were no road lights, but it was great," said Mr Drewett.

"For the first time we lived in a house with both hot and cold running water and even a bath."

The couple have two children – son, Robert,

DEVOTED COUPLE: Left, John and Lily Drewett who are about to celebrate 60 years of marriage. Right, the happy couple on their wedding day who was born in 1957, and daughter Carol, who was born in 1960 – and five grandchildren.

Mr Drewett worked as an engineer on milling machines and lathes, mostly for the aerospace industry in Hatfield, while he wife was employed soldering printed circuit boards for a company in Bush Fair.

Mr Drewett became a well-known member of Stort Cricket Club where he played for many years and is still an active supporter. His wife is a keen gardener.

The couple, who moved to their current home at Fir Park in 1980, will be celebrating their anniversary with family and friends.

Florist Bernard plans move to new premises

Trader swaps West Gate for Broad Walk

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A TRADER whose warning about a crisis facing Harlow town centre sparked calls for a debate on the future of the area is preparing to move to new premises.

Florist Bernard Chapman, who is Harlow's longest serving shop owner after having traded in the town for almost six decades, will shut his shop in West Gate and move to Broad Walk in July.

Mr Chapman, whose clients have included members of the Royal Family, pop singer Rod Stewart, romantic novelist Dame Barbara Cartland and actor Ray Winstone, said he could no longer justify paying the annual rent of £56,000 on his current shop at the entrance to the Harvey Centre.

He has taken the decision to move into the former EE shop unit in Broad Walk where the rent is £35,000.

Mr Chapman said: "The back [of the current shop] is disgusting. The roof leaks and the electricity is badly fitted and unsafe. We're not even allowed to keep bins anymore which makes it very difficult; it's just a pig-hole."

"The leak is so bad that at times of bad weather the water runs down the lighting cables, causing the lights to fuse which is very dangerous for my staff and customers."

He added that after a long period of negotiations with the landlord he had been offered a new three-year lease with no rights of compensation. There was also clause where he could be asked to vacate the premises at three months' notice and still be expected to contribute £5,000 to renovation fees.

Last month Mr Chapman called for crisis talks to address the issues in the town centre which he described as a "disaster area."

Mr Chapman, who has been trading in the town centre since

1956, is still hoping to hold a meeting with representatives of Harlow Council, the Harvey centre, landlords and town MP Robert Halfon.

"People have come in their masses to support me since the article appeared," he said, "and we must have had at least 50 telephone calls."

He has started a diary where people can add their comments about the issue. One shopper wrote: "I agree with you, save our town," while another added: "Well done Bernard, agree with you 100 per cent."

Mr Chapman said that part of the appeal of the new premises was the increase in the amount of floor space and better access to the backyard for the collection of rubbish.

"I have got the keys and my estimate for a move is early July, but we need to do all the measurements and fittings," he said. "It will be a gradual move and I will keep paying rent in the current shop until September."

Other traders in the area echoed Mr Chapman's concerns with one in East Gate saying his rate of £26,000 a year was unjustified for an area of the town that was "becoming nothing."

Another said: "There is no life at this end of the town and not many people come here to shop. Something needs to be done."

Over 50s bowlers are a friendly crowd

MEMBERS of a bowls club in Harlow are looking for new recruits to join the "friendly atmosphere" of their twice-weekly over-50s sessions.

The group, which currently has 30 members, meets from 11am-1pm on Mondays and Fridays at the Griffin Bowls Club at the rear of the Latton Bush Centre from 11am-1pm, with those attending usually taking time to socialise afterwards.

Membership is £2.50 for a year and each game costs £2.70.

Club organiser Terry Card, 78, said: "We would like to try and get a few more members. We're a friendly crowd and bowls is great exercise. The only requirement is that you wear flat soled shoes."

Anyone interested should call Mr Card on (01279) 443477.

Award for inspirational Neighbourhood Watch champion

WELL DONE: Christine Beetlestone receives her award from with Essex police commissioner Nick Alston and Assistant Chief Constable of Essex Police, Julia Wortley

A NEIGHBOURHOOD Watch co-ordinator from Harlow has received an award for her dedication and enthusiasm.

Christine Beetlestone was presented with the honour at the annual awards ceremony held by Essex Neighbourhood Watch.

Each district within the Essex Police area was invited to submit nominations for the awards and all were invited to attend the ceremony.

Christine, whose commitment, positive attitude and enthusiasm was hailed as an inspiration to everyone, has been very ill over the past three years but despite many visits to hospital for treatments she continued to keep members informed of everything she knows will be of interest to them.

"Our residents look forward to her chatty newsletters which keep us informed, but also make us smile," said county co-ordinator Alan Johnson.

"She gives freely of her time and effort and we are extremely lucky to have her as our representative."

Two arrested over assault on teenager in town centre

TWO teenagers have been arrested in connection with an assault in Harlow town centre which left a 17-year-old in hospital with serious head injuries.

The incident happened in Post Office Walk in the early hours of Friday, May 8.

Police were called to the scene following reports of a group of 20 to 30 men fighting in the street.

The victim, who lives locally, was kicked, punched and stamped on. A second teenager, from Epping, was also assaulted but did not require hospital treatment.

Following media reports of the incident, police arrested a 17-year-old from Harlow. He has been charged with two counts of assault and is due to appear at Chelmsford Youth Court on June 19.

A 19-year-old man from Epping was arrested on suspicion of assault and is currently on bail until August 17 pending further enquiries.

Police are appealing for witnesses to the assault or anyone with information about what happened and who has yet to speak to officers to contact DC Lauren Strangward at Harlow CID on the non emergency 101 number on Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Queen's Speech 'good news for working people'

MEASURES announced in the Queen's Speech are good news for working people and low income earners, according to Harlow

In the speech, delivered during yesterday's state opening of Parliament, the Government announced that people on the minimum wage who work 30 hours a week will be taken out of the tax bracket altogether.

Childcare will be increased for three- and four-year-olds from 15 to 30 hours a week and that there will be no increase on VAT, income tax or National Insurance contributions.

On housing, the Right to Buy scheme will be extended, a move which which Mr Halfon said would help thousands of Harlow tenants in social housing buy their own home. The Government has also pledged to build 200,000 new affordable homes.

Elsewhere in the speech, young person will be given a youth allowance and offered apprenticeships or training if they are out of education and/or work.

The NHS budget will be increased alongside the number of hours doctors and hospitals are open

The Government also pledged to increase the real value of state pensions.

"During the election I worked hard to campaign on issues like lower taxes for lower earners, more housing, and protecting our NHS," said Mr Halfon.

"This Queen's Speech lives up to the Conservative's manifesto commitments to help working people by cutting taxes for lower earners, helping parents pay for their child care, boosting our NHS and protecting pensioners."

Residents pay more for parking permitsCharges to rise next month ...and more are on the way

By Gemma Gardener

gemma.gardener@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE cost of on-street parking permits for both residents and visitors in Harlow will increase from next month.

The new charges announced by the North Essex Parking Partnership (NEPP), which is responsible for all street-based parking services in the county, will come into effect on Monday, June 8.

The cost of a permit for the first vehicle will rise by 10 per cent from £30 to £33 while those for a second car will increase from £60 to £65.

A pack of 10 visitors permits will increase by 50 per cent from £10 to £15. The cost of other permits will remain the same.

It has also been revealed that the cost of a resident permit will eventually rise to £40 by 2018.

The NEPP said the new charges were approved by a joint committee, which includes representatives of Harlow Council.

The changes will bring Harlow in line with other authorities in Essex.

But residents say they are just another cost for motorists who are already feeling the effects of a council tax increase.

"We should not have to pay to park where we live," said one angry resident. "They should just issue free permits.

"It's just another way of getting money out of us."

Many residents also complained about the increased cost for a second permit, which bring to people with more than one vehicle to almost £100.

The Essex Parking Partnership is run by Essex County Council and 12 district/borough councils and split into north and south. The aim is to administer parking rules in a "fair, proportionate and consistent standard".

Uniformity

A North Essex Parking Partnership spokesperson confirmed the new charges will come into force on June 8.

"Our aim is to bring some uniformity of pricing across Essex which is agreed upon by our joint committee, on which sits a elected member from all partner authorities, including Harlow.

"These prices are set to reflect the true cost of establishing, operating and managing a resident parking scheme."

"It has been agreed that by 2018 the cost of a resident permit in Harlow will be £40.

"We have introduced a gradual price increase rather than just charge the top amount across the board."

CRAFTY: Youngsters enjoy some of the craft activities

Let it rain, let it rain: Weather can't dampen enthusiasm of crowds

CROWDS danced to the beat of the annual Heart4Harlow festival which played out over the extended bank holiday weekend.

Four days of music and dance were held in the Water Gardens and Town Park alongside several tie-in events elsewhere around the town.

The festival, which had as its theme Together Community Creates, kicked off on Friday with a traditional ribbon cutting ceremony by Harlow Council chairman Ian Beckett before youngsters from several of the town's schools and Harlow College, took to the stage to perform.

Diverse

Hundreds of people were in the crowd for Saturday's proceedings which included performances by such diverse acts as Nick Newton's Jazz Band, Three Valleys Male Voice Choir and Harlow Theatre Company.

Elsewhere, cream teas were served at the Gibberd Garden

LET THE FUN BEGIN: Council chairman Ian Beckett performed the opening ceremony HEKp20150522A-188.C

while a photographic exhibition was held at the St Paul's Church and a community art display took place at the Gibberd Gallery throughout the course of the weekend.

Monday belonged to Harlow Rock School who staged a day-long concert in the Town Park, which was well attended and drew positive comments on social media.

Festival organiser Robert Findlay said his personal favourite event was a sing-a-long to the songs of the Disney film Frozen. "It was ever so good because there was torrential rain but families with umbrellas came along to sing and they queued up afterwards for photos with the cast.

"We were fortunate that not one day was a total washout and the weather did not stop the event. I was very pleased with how it went; there was a buzz."

Family on the average wage can't afford a home in town

'London effect' making rental properties scarce too, says report

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A NEW study claims few of the homes on sale in Harlow are affordable to the average family, while first-time buyers are being priced out of 90 per cent of properties in the region.

Homeless support charity Shelter compared house prices sourced from property search engine Zoopla with the average wage and what a family would be able to borrow.

A search of homes for sale one property website found that of 321 properties on the market in Harlow, only 12 were for sale for less than £100,000 and none of them were large enough to accommodate a family.

According to Shelter, the average wage for a family in Harlow would mean they would only be able to borrow £111,963.

Calling on the Government to ensure more homes are built to meet the shortage, Shelter chief executive Campbell Robb said: "This is nothing short of a scandal.

"Decades of failing to deliver the homes we need is leaving millions trapped in expensive and unstable private renting or in their childhood bedrooms with barely a hope of saving for a home of their own.

"It's time for the talk to stop and the work to begin.

Deliver

"Politicians need to act swiftly to deliver the plan that will build the 250,000 homes a year we need."

Meanwhile, the demand for a single room to rent in Harlow has soared by 350 per cent during the past two years, making it one of the most sought-after commuter towns in the South East.

Research by the website spare-room.co.uk claims there are now nine prospective tenants hunting for every single available room in the town. The reason is commuters taking advantage of rail links to London in order to escape escalating rents in the capital.

The average cost of renting a room in Harlow is £443 per month, significantly cheaper the average of £734 in London.

Matt Hutchinson, director of spare-room.com, said: "Across the capital there are currently five people searching for every room available, but in certain satellite towns like Harlow there are close to double that number.

"What we're seeing is the housing crisis rippling out along the train lines from London. In many cases that means increased competition and rising rents.

"At the moment there are still towns and cities offering a good balance between journey time and cheaper rents, but unless we address the need for more affordable homes, particularly in the south east, that won't be the case for long."

Budding rocket engineers egged on to hit the heights

STUDENTS from Stewards Academy competed against other Essex schools to launch a rocket high into the sky.

The 10 Year 7 and 8 students from the Parnall Road secondary had been preparing for the UK Aerospace Youth Rocketry Challenge since January and finally got to launch their rockets at Stow Maries Aerodrome on Saturday.

All competing teams were required to build a rocket with two raw eggs inside. Tough competition rules stated that for the test to be passed, rockets should reach 800 feet and deploy a parachute to make a safe landing with the eggs intact.

The 12 competing Essex schools were then marked to how closely they met these requirements and given a score.

Unfortunately for the two Stewards teams had bad luck on the day, with the first rocket failing to deploy its parachute, and the second team's rocket landing safely but not flying high enough.

However despite the unfortunate results, the students did still enjoy the day.

John Flood, school science teacher, organised the project alongside Ann-Marie Walsh.

He said: "They had a great day and everyone had fun at the launch, it was fantastic."

"We started around Christmas and we met every Thursday after school from 3.30-5pm."

Clear-up efforts of team were anything but rubbish

SCHOOLCHILDREN left their classrooms to take part in a litter pick in the community.

The group of more than 40 Year 5 students helped clean Bush Fair shopping hatch.

The litter pick was one of several Pear Tree Mead Academy events that engaged pupils with the Harlow community.

The children were also helped out at the Over 60s Community Hub in Bush Fair.

Community Week was jointly organised by the school St Stephen's Church, in Tawneys Road, whose associate priest, Rev Dr Sheila Fernandes helped lead activities.

Dr Fernandes said: "The children had a lovely time, it was great for them to do and they did a really good job. They loved it."

"Local shoppers came over to see what the children were doing, and congratulated them on their work. The children were asking very pointed questions as to why people drop litter and don't put it in a bin."

Dr Fernandes said she hopes to continue the established link between church and school.

Delight as nursery wins award for its autism work

A NURSERY is celebrating after receiving an award for its work to support children with autism and learning difficulties.

Gateway Nursery in Perry Road, Harlow, was one of only 20 centres in Essex to achieve the Bronze level Good Beginnings Award after undertaking months of hard work to make the nursery accessible for all.

Deputy manager Hayley Camish said: "We have tackled staff awareness and adapted our procedure to children who have autism or communicational skills that need developing."

Changed

"Staff have done training and changed the nursery environment to help us get the award."

She added: "It has been a long process, but there are only 20 nurseries in Essex who have taken part in the award."

"It was very hard but we tackled it and we have recently got a good Ofsted result that has helped back it up."

Budding chefs do battle in big college cook-off

Teams asked to devise and create two-course meal

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TRAINEE chefs chopped, stirred and mixed for victory in an exciting cooking competition held at Harlow College in association with confectionery giant Nestlé.

With Nestlé offering a prize of a tour of their Gatwick headquarters, there was much at stake for the 58 competing students, who had to create a two-course meal to impress judges.

The catering students competed in pairs across various categories which corresponded to their experience in the kitchen.

Won

Maddie Osborne, 17, a VRQ3 catering and hospitality student, was part of the team who won the Level 3 competition.

She said: "I thought the whole competition was excellent and to top it off we won. I have never won anything before and it made me feel so awesome about myself."

"We were given very basic Nestlé ingredients and we had to create something delicious. Me and my cooking partner made tomato risotto with prawn and chorizo and for a desert, a coconut and lime styled cheesecake with doughnuts covered in cream."

Her compatriot Tom Pullen, 16, was part of the Level 2 winning

partnership and said: "We were so shocked about winning, we are so proud of ourselves."

"It was our first competition and we didn't know what to expect but we loved it, we challenged ourselves with this competition but we worked well as a team and that's the secret."

David Newman, of company Chartwell who run the catering course on behalf of Harlow College, said: "It was an excellent contest between students with superb opportunity to display their skills as Nestlé provided the chance to order any ingredients at no cost to the college. It provided a competitive atmosphere with five judges casting a critical eye over them, testing nerves and cooking skill levels."

Three-year plan set to transform school site

A PRIMARY school will be rejuvenated under a three-year renovation plan to make better use of the land and buildings.

Cooks Spinney Primary has not been refurbished since it opened in 1954. Work started during the Easter break to lay new flooring in five classrooms and re-paint school corridors in bright colours.

Old-fashioned coat pegs will be replaced with modern lockers and over the summer classes will be swapped around, with nursery and reception connected to the rest of the school.

Multi-sensory

A spare classroom will also be turned into a hi-tech multi-sensory room.

Head teacher Stuart Pope said: "We want to bring the school to life. This is a happy, vibrant environment where children take pride in what they are doing and feel valued. We want the physical environment to match."

"The work has already given everyone a lift. The children did not know it was happening and so were thrilled when they returned to the new bright environment."

"We are having a good clear out to make space and brightening everything up. By creating more space, we can set up learning environments for group work. We have got an enormous site and need to make the most of it."

Can you help keep Parkrun running?

The growing popularity of the Saturday morning Harlow Parkrun has prompted organisers to call for more people to offer their services as marshalls and timekeepers. Reporter WILLIAM MATA got up early to join the runners on their weekly 5km workout.

IT'S Friday evening and I'm planning a night in. The reason is simple – I know that I'll have to be up at 7am the following morning.

For the second time this year I've decided to have a go at the Harlow Parkrun, a free weekly timed 5km run around the Town Park. I've been looking forward to it all week.

As something of a weekend warrior, I enjoy the challenge of a run and set myself ambitious goals without ever bothering to put the work in to help myself achieve them.

However, I've decided that this year will be different and I'm taking small steps to make it happen.

My target is to run 10km in under 40 minutes. It's a tough ask since I've never run half that distance in under 20 so I have a task on my hands.

I'm not discrete about my ambitions and in fact I take to Twitter to announce to my followers that I will be attempting the Parkrun the following day with the aim of finishing in under 20 minutes. No backing down now.

The response I get back is slightly concerning. Harlow Parkrun tweet me: "@journowillmata not without the timekeepers you won't. Do you know anyone who can help?"

I suddenly feel ashamed that I've taken for granted the work of the volunteers and timekeepers who give up their Saturday mornings to help out people like me.

The following day I'm on the start line when a similar call to action is made. An official is telling the group of assembled runners that they are desperately looking for more volunteers and that it had been a mad scramble to even put the run on that morning.

It only takes a handful of volunteers to staff the run which is now enjoyed by so many. More than 100 runners and walkers of all abilities – ranging from experienced club athletes to those who are delighted to complete the 5km route at a walking pace – line up for the start.

There are quite a few children taking part... and even dogs are encouraged.

It is the volunteers that allow runners to enjoy this great event and make it possible for people like me to keep track of my progress. As the organiser sends us on our way I make a mental note to offer my services a volunteer, but not before I've negotiated the run.

It dawns on me fairly early that I've forgotten how tricky the Town Park course is, with lots of up and down stretches, twists, turns and grass sections.

I'm beginning to struggle towards the end and eventually finish in a time of 20:51. Straight away a cup of water is thrust at me by an enthusiastic youngster on the refreshment table.

Of course I'm annoyed that on this occasion I didn't get my time, but thanks to the volunteers I know there will be another opportunity.

Hospice gearing up for its first cycle ride fundraiser

FUNDRAISERS at St Clare Hospice are calling for people to saddle up for its first-ever bike ride to coincide with its 25th anniversary celebrations.

It is the first time organisers of the popular Essex County Bike Ride have chosen to support a local charity and it is expected to raise thousands of pounds for the Hastingwood hospice.

The sponsored ride, which takes place on Sunday, June 8, starts and finishes at the Redbridge Cycling Centre in Hainault. Part of the route passes through the St Clare catchment area.

Among those taking part will be St Clare's communications and marketing manager Karen Griffiths.

"My dad received hospice care towards the end of his life," she said. "It was amazing and such a blessing for the whole family, as well as my dad."

"Also, a dear friend who was my age recently came to the end of a two-year journey with cancer. I'm cycling in memory of both of them."

Karen, who joined the hospice team in last year, added: "I can honestly say it is the most life-enriching environment I've ever had the privilege of being part of. I witness people's lives being transformed and their confidence to cope restored, because of the way they are cared for and supported."

"But with limited NHS funding, St Clare has to raise a huge amount of money each year to keep that care going. So I want to do my bit."

The bike ride is suitable for both recreational and club cyclists and offers a choice of either a 33, 60 or 100-mile route. Registration is £18 per person (£17.50 for team entry based on a minimum of six people) for the 33- and 60-mile routes, or £24 per person (£23.50 for team entry based on a minimum of six people) for the 100-mile route. Riders are encouraged to raise as much additional sponsorship as possible for St Clare.

For more information, contact the St Clare fundraising team on (01279) 773750.

Rail company top of list for angry tweets

THE train operator responsible for running services through Harlow has topped the list of rail providers receiving the most angry tweets in the past year, according to new data.

The figures released by commuter watchdog CommuteLondon showed Abellio Greater Anglia received 72,861 negative comments on social media site Twitter. Last year a total of 1.77m tweets were sent to the 14 train companies which run services into London.

CommuteLondon collected the statistics by searching for a number of keywords such as fault, profit, angry and frustrated. Greater Anglia also received the most tweets using the key words too hot, air con and sauna as well as sub zero, freezer and icicles.

A spokesman for the Dutch-owned firm, which has operated services on the Liverpool Street to Cambridge line through Harlow since February 2012, said: "Twitter is a positive way in which we engage with our customers."

"Our Twitter team provide immediate updates on train running matters which they can quickly pass on to customers requesting service information and travel advice."

"We also genuinely appreciate the feedback we receive via social media which helps in our efforts to improve the services that we provide."

Halfon suggests rebranding Conservatives the Workers Party

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon has suggested the Conservative Party should be renamed the Workers Party following its victory at the General Election.

In his first interview with a national newspaper following his promotion to the post of the party's deputy chairman, Mr Halfon said the Tories had replaced the Labour Party as "the modern trade union movement for working people".

He also said he would like to see the logo of a tree replaced with an image of a workman's ladder, a reference to Sir Winston Churchill's who once declared: "We are for the ladder. Let all try their best to climb."

"The name is something we should look at and I have written about this in the past," he said. "If we get the message right as well as the policies, we will de facto become the Workers Party."

"I believe we are that already, it's just not enough people know about it and we have to get out there."

He added: "We are the party of the ladder, it was Churchill who first said that."

"The ladder symbolises everything we're about. If you're in poverty we'll get you into work, if you're in work we'll cut your taxes. If you want to own your home, we'll help you do that too."

"It's not just leaving people to climb up it themselves, we hold that ladder for them."

Mr Halfon has said he has worked to help the Conservative Party shed its upper class image and appeal more to the working classes through his brand of 'white van Conservatism'.

His appointment as deputy chairman was seen by political commentators as an attempt by the Prime Minister to reflect a change of order within the party which is trying to appeal to voters who traditionally support Labour.

He added that following Labour's disastrous performance at the General Election earlier this month, the Tories had a headstart to secure the support of swing voters.

"The Labour Party have demonised us, unsuccessfully as it turned out, as 11.5m million people still voted for us," he said.

"We have an incredible opportunity now to show we are a party with a moral mission, too."

He said diversity among Conservative MPs was the key to changing the party's image, adding: "I'd like to see a special emphasis on getting candidates from low income backgrounds and single parent candidates."

Mr Halfon, who was once described by Chancellor George Osborne as the most expensive MP in Parliament because of his campaigns to cut taxes and Government spending, is credited for persuading the Chancellor to scrap rises in fuel duty and reduce what he called the tax on bingo.

Abseil pals raise £800 for charity

A GROUP of thrillseekers who abseiled down the side of the Chuch Langely water tower has raised more than £800 for a charity which provides support to people with disabilities and their families in west Essex.

Nicola Pic, Gary Boyce, Melanie Woolacomb, Darren Wright, Hayley Wright, Claire Dickinson, Catrina Matthews, Ryan Horsecroft and Janice Schooling braved blustery wind and rain to take part in the event organised by the Rotary Club of Harlow Tye earlier this month.

The money they raised will go to Accuro, which is based at Hastingwood.

A charity spokesman said: "The sponsorship money will help us to continue providing vital services for people with disabilities."

Neurotics' first bass player dies at the age of 59

Tributes to founding member of punk band

Jo O'Reilly

star@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

TRIBUTES have been paid to Colin Masters, a founding member of Harlow punk rock pioneers The Newtown Neurotics, who has died at the age of 59.

The band's original bass player passed away last week at Princess Alexandra Hospital from complications following an operation.

Colin, who grew up in Chapel Fields before moving to Westfield, was part of the band's original line-up alongside Steve Drewett and Simon Lemond. He had suffered years of ill health.

The Newtown Neurotics were formed in 1978 and released a number of albums throughout the 1980s. Their songs were openly political and they were probably best known for the 1981 single Kick out the Tories and their iconic T-shirts featuring the slogan.

This week Mr Drewett said: "The Neurotics was everything to him. He was with the band for 10 years and he never attempted to play in another band again."

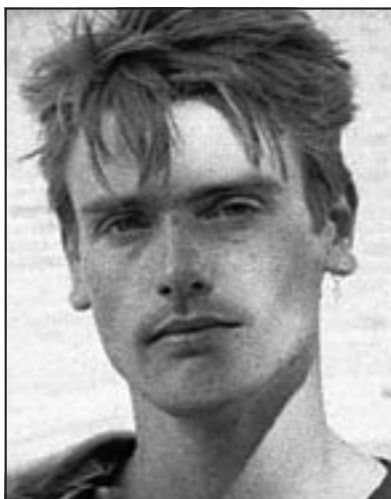

"It's only now he has passed away we finding out the depth of influence his music had around the world."

Colin played with the band until he was diagnosed with pleurisy in 1988. He went on to build a career in youth work and is fondly remembered from his time working on the Harlow Playbus and at the town's paddling pools in late 1980s and early '90s.

Although he never joined another band, he maintained a long involvement in the local music scene and Harlow's iconic venue The Square.

When The Newtown Neurotics reformed in 2006 he occasionally joined the band on stage when his health allowed. But in recent years his health deteriorated and he was rarely seen out.

Among those who paid tribute to Colin were DJ Gideon Coe and singer Billy Bragg. On the day of his death, Radio 6 presenter Steve Lamacq dedicated his show to him.

His sister, Ruth, said: "He was such a very loving person, very touched by people's dilemmas. He very much had a social conscience."

"I wish he had known how much of an influence he had on peoples' lives."

A funeral service will be held at Harlow's Parndon Wood Crematorium on Wednesday (June 3) followed by refreshments at The Greyhound pub.

The Square is planning to hold a tribute night later in the year.

County looking to find more foster carers

ESSEX County Council is planning to use Foster Care Fortnight, which starts on Monday, to encourage more people to consider applying.

The authority hopes to recruit enough foster carers to provide homes for an additional 60 children in 2015/2016.

There are currently 775 Essex children currently living in foster homes but there is a particular need for carers who can provide a home for large sibling groups, teenagers, children with disabilities and those seeking asylum.

Councillor Dick Madden, the council's cabinet member for children's services, said: "There are still many myths about who can foster but all that really matters is that carers have the time, commitment, space and personal qualities to offer a secure and stable home to a child or children who have been separated from their birth family."

"We all know that a childhood is too short to waste and we're looking for people who can open their home and heart to a child who has had a difficult start in life and help them reach their potential."

Why the water vole could be wiped out

ONE of the cutest creatures which live along the river banks of the UK is under the threat of extinction.

The water vole is the largest member of the vole family and anyone who has read the popular children's book The Wind In The Willows will know that the character of Ratty is, in fact, a water vole.

They were once a common sight but now, according to the Canal & River Trust which is responsible for looking after 2,000 miles of waterways across England and Wales, the number of water voles has fallen over the past 45 years and in 15 areas of the country they have disappeared altogether.

Between 1970 and 1999 water voles were spotted at 53 different places along the trust's network of waterways but between 2000 and 2015 this had fallen to just 38 locations.

Experts say this is mainly because their natural habitat has been lost to development, agriculture and pollution.

Mark Robinson, of the Canal & River Trust, explains: "Water voles are one of the most endangered species in the country and are fast becoming a rare sight on Britain's canals and rivers.

"While there have been positive steps across the country to reintroduce them and protect their habitats, we have to do more if we are going to stop the water vole from going the way of the dodo."

The dodo was a large flightless bird which was hunted by humans and as a result became extinct more than 400 years ago.

Fact file

- Water voles are found in much of Europe, east Siberia and Mongolia.
- They prefer lowland areas and spend most of their time within two metres of their burrows.
- Slow-flowing, deep water such as canals, lakes and streams suit the voles, who do not have the webbed feet of most water-dwelling animals.
- Water voles burrow into steep canal or riverside banks to form a complicated system of underground tunnels and nesting chambers.
- Voles construct their burrows on several levels to minimise the risk of flooding and at least one entrance will be below the water level.
- Water vole droppings are the shape of Tic-Tac sweets and are dark green in colour.

'The longer we live, more people will be affected ...'

PAH receives funding for buddy roles

HOSPITALS can be disorientating and frightening for a person with dementia and can make their condition worse.

But patients and their families in Harlow are receiving above and beyond care and support from Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS Trust, thanks to its 'champions' scheme.

A pioneering project launched last year means that there is now at least one dementia champion on every ward in the Hamstel Road hospital.

They have also trained nurses who work away from the front-line, so that families who are communicating with the hospital get the support they need to help them through what is a difficult time.

"Being in hospital is difficult for anyone, but for a patient with dementia, it can be particularly unsettling and disorientating," explains Andy Dixon, matron for quality improvement, who is leading the Dementia Champions programme.

"Half of all patients with dementia find their condition has worsened following a stay in hospital.

"Our role is to make colleagues more understanding of why a patient may be more challenging as well as encourage them to proactively tailor therapies to that individual."

Dementia affects more than 800,000 people in the UK. It's a figure which continues to rise and is expected to be in excess of 1.7 million by 2051. It is estimated that 25 per cent of people in hospitals may have dementia. Gemma Gardner reports on a pioneering dementia champions project at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital.

Dementia

- Dementia itself is not a disease
- Dementia is not an inevitable part of getting older
- Dementia is more than just memory loss
- It's possible to live an independent and active life with dementia
- Dementia has a bigger impact on women
- Dementia is a global issue
- Dementia doesn't discriminate
- There are currently no treatments to stop the diseases that cause dementia
- Investment in dementia research is still low

source: Alzheimer's Society

These can include creating a memory box for the patient with items that mean something to them and which can offer a calming and distracting effect.

Many patients have short-term memory loss and are unable to distinguish night from day, so old photographs are also posted around wards where dementia patients are treated and night/day clocks hang on the walls.

"Many have short-term memory loss but may remember exactly what they were doing in 1930. Patients with dementia get bored so it's something for them to look at," explained Andy.

Personal profiles are also routinely completed by patients and their families so that staff know what the individual likes and dislikes. The Alzheimer's Society has produced a leaflet called 'This Is Me' which can be used to record this information.

"It is about understanding the care that the relatives need as well because the person they are looking after isn't the person they remember," said Andy.

"As we live longer, more and more people are going to be affected by it. For those people, it is about the little things we can do to help."

THE Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS Trust is one of four hospitals which have been successful in securing funding for a new project encouraging young people to help in hospitals.

The Department of Health and the charity Nesta has offered grants of up to £50,000 to a small number of hospitals with the aim of mobilising more young people to help improve patient experience, satisfaction and outcomes. PAH will be seeking dementia buddies and discharge support buddies.

Discharge buddies will take on a befriending role to ensure patients who are discharged receive an extra layer of support, including help prior to discharge to build up a rapport.

It is expected that follow-up phone calls will be made in the days after discharge from hospital to explore any additional needs and provide signposting to other services where necessary.

Dementia buddies will provide support for patients and their carers whilst in hospital. It may include visiting patients to keep them company, taking part one-to-one activities, assistance at meal times if necessary and taking time to talk with carers.

Volunteers will receive specific training and will be asked to assist for two-four hours for a period of at least 16 weeks. Expenses will be paid and meals provided.

Police to carry out drug tests on all suspects

Ken Morley

ken.morley@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ALL suspects arrested by Essex Police will be tested for drugs in a bid to reduce re-offending.

Chief Constable Stephen Kavanagh announced this week the pilot project, running in Chelmsford since 2013, will now be rolled out across the county.

During the trial period every person passing through custody was given a saliva test to check for crack cocaine or heroin.

At the point of arrest a suspect is given a drug test. If they refuse they could be charged with a further offence, similar to failing to provide a specimen of breath in a drink-drive case.

Addiction

"Many drug users commit crime to feed their addiction, so fewer drug users means fewer criminals and, crucially, fewer victims," said Mr Kavanagh.

"Doing things the way they've always been done won't break the cycle where offenders go to prison, are released and then fall back into old behaviours."

Last year the force was awarded

KITTED OUT:

Chief Constable Stephen Kavanagh, Karen Bottress of the Safer Essex Partnership and Essex police commissioner Nick Alston with some of the drug-testing equipment

£718,000 by the Home Office to enable the roll-out, topped up with funding from Essex County Council and the Office of the Police and Crime Commissioner for Essex.

Figures for last month alone show that of the 270 drug tests carried out in Essex Police custody suites, 117 (43 per cent) were positive for opiates and/or crack cocaine.

Of these, 78 people (67 per cent) had been arrested on suspicion of shoplifting.

Nick Alston, the Police and Crime Commissioner for Essex, said evidence showed that treatment for drug misuse had the potential to reduce re-offending.

"I'm delighted this programme is to be expanded across our county," he said.

"Not many police forces have taken up this opportunity and it's taken a lot of hard work to get the Home Office funding, but it is truly a collaboration between the agencies."

"There's always huge pressure on the police finances but I'm absolutely committed to using the police budget to reduce demand, so that this investment in the short term can save money in the long term."

AAA STAND-UP LATE

CHRISTIAN REILLY

A FUNNY old month!

AHEAD of the acclaimed annual comedy bonanza that is the Edinburgh Festival, 14 comics will be fine-tuning their shows at a series of gigs at Bishop's Stortford's Half Moon pub.

The North Street venue's Ha-Half Moon comedy club will host an exclusive season of full-length preview shows on seven Sundays in June and July, featuring familiar faces such as TV magician Pete Firman, Mark Simmons and Stortford's own award-winning Steve Bugeja.

Hosted and organised by John Mann, the series will see two comedians perform each night: the first at 8pm and the second at 9.15pm.

This is with the exception of Sunday, July 19, which will start at 4pm, with cream teas in the interval.

Kicking off the season on Sunday, June 7 will be Danny Ward, followed by Mark Simmons. Ward won the Amused Moose People's Choice Award for his Edinburgh Fringe show Pressure Point. Simmons's 2009 Edinburgh show reached the finals of the festival's So You Think You're Funny awards.

On Sunday, June 14, acclaimed magician Pete Firman and comedian Jenny Collier will grace the Long Room stage.

Firman is a familiar face from his regular appearances on BBC One show The Magicians. Collier has been described as a rising star and "one to watch" by Edinburgh Evening News.

On Sunday, June 28, former Bishop's Stortford High School student Steve Bugeja, who in late 2013 won the BBC Radio New Comedy Award, will appear. He will be followed by Stansted Mountfitchet resident Ed Hedges, who won the So You Think You're Funny award at last year's Edinburgh Festival.

The duo will also appear the following night, Monday, June 29.

Next up, on Sunday, July 5, Scottish Comedian of the Year Award winner Larry Dean will deliver his tales and tomfoolery.

He has supported the likes of Stephen K Amos and Eddie Izzard, and was described in the Evening Standard as "fascinatingly funny".

On the same night, Geoff

Norcott, who was nominated for best new show at Dave's Leicester Comedy Festival and whose writing credits include C4's Alternative Election 2015 and The Sarah Millican Television Programme, will perform.

On Sunday, July 12, Laura Lexx, who was selected to compete for the BBC New Comedy Award in 2012 and 2014, will deliver what she describes as "a show about being happy, loving life and the little things in it".

Following that, Alistair Barrie, whose 2012 show Urban Fogey was runner-up in the Amused Moose award for best show at the Fringe, will step up. His show, No More Stage Three, is based on the fact that his wife was diagnosed with stage three breast cancer in January.

On Sunday, July 19, softly-spoken Irishwoman Mary Bourke, described as "ferociously funny" by The Irish World, will perform before Kate Lucas, fresh from Stortford Music Festival, mixes her kooky blend of niceness and cynicism in her musical set.

And to bring the Edinburgh preview shows to a close on Sunday, July 26, musical comedian Christian Reilly will play his parodies using voice and guitar. Finally, AAA Stand-Up Late, a trio of comics, will end the night and the series of shows.

Tickets cost £6 in advance and £7 on the door, except for Bugeja and Hedges on Monday, June 29, for which the audience will be asked for a voluntary donation.

Players' rummaging full of pathos and laughs

BAZAAR & RUMMAGE
SAWBRIIDGEWORTH PLAYERS
VICTORIA HALL, OLD HARLOW

IN this age of online funding and charity shops, the rummage sale is now almost a thing of the past.

Bazaar & Rummage, written by Adrian Mole creator Sue Townsend and directed by Sheila Goodwin, is set in 1980 and captures the cosy atmosphere of the church hall sale, where well-meaning amateurs pulled together in aid of a worthy cause.

Except that in this case there's very little well-meaning and virtually no pulling together.

The event has been organised by the dictatorial Gwenda, a volunteer social worker who has set up a self-help group for agoraphobics. As the members are unable to leave their homes, the group never gets together – counselling has been undertaken via the telephone – and the rummage sale is the first time they have ever met.

There's Katrina (Lynne Andrews), a vain and gaudily-dressed would-be entertainer who's totally shielded from the world by an over-protective husband and compulsive cleaner Bell-Bell (Sara Coombe) who appears to be a grieving widow but has, in actual fact, driven her long-suffering husband away.

And then there's the down-to-earth, comically foul-mouthed Margaret (a moving and powerful performance from Jo Lanario) whose aggressive bravado masks a history of sexual abuse.

None of these women have been out of their homes for years and it's only through the iron will of the staggeringly self-regarding Gwenda that they've managed to get to the hall in the first place.

Rosalind Barron was outstanding as the snobby, politically-incorrect organiser, cajoling and haranguing her little group into setting up and manning their stalls, yet vulnerable and sad as she contemplates her own agoraphobic past.

Trying to keep the proceedings on an even keel is trainee social worker Fliss, sparkily portrayed by Linda Helm-Manley. Having turned her back on her own detested middle-class background, she rails against Gwenda's snobbery and control and tries to get the group members to stick up for themselves.

This was a tricky play to stage. Roger Newman's set was suitably cluttered and crowded and the script was a little erratic in places.

But the cast worked well together, successfully drawing out the pathos and humour of the storyline – and raising lots of laughs in the process.

Dining with a TWIST at new pop-up cafe

CUSTOMERS at a new 'pop-up' cafe can order a jam doughnut and a joke as the venue looks to provide an alternative dining experience.

A pair of street performers will bring their skills to Harlow from Thursday, June 4 to 25.

They will transform an empty shop unit in Broad Walk into the Hunt & Darton cafe – an eatery with a twist.

After selecting food and drink from the menu, diners can also purchase a performance from their waiter for some entertainment while they eat.

One half of the team, Holly Darton, says the venue has already proved a hit with customers across the country including at the Edinburgh Fringe Festival.

Holly, who is running the cafe with fellow performer Jenny Hunt, said: "It can be quite subversive, but customers can order what they want. We try to portray the hospitality in a comedic way so everything we do in her has a slight twist."

"We will try to engage in general banter with our visitors, but we also have the set menu if they want something a bit more obvious."

"Some customers do like to get involved and they get the chance to genuinely feel a part of something. At times it is like controlled chaos."

She added: "The idea is you

CAN WE TAKE YOUR ORDER:
Jenny Hunt and Holly Darton

can come in and have a cup of tea and a slice of cake and have a performance delivered to your table.

"We ask people to lower their expectations, and then it can just go up from there."

The café will offer the temporary transformation of an empty retail unit into a living, breathing work of art, celebrating the iconic status of the café in the British high street.

"It's pretty much a tailored experience for everyone who comes in, people can choose from a set three course menu of performance, not for consumption."

There is a 15 per cent discount for students, pensioners and the unemployed.

The café is free to enter, with no food purchase or ticket required to immerse yourself in the performance.

Local performers will guest as waiters and Amanda Westbury of Gatehouse Arts is one who has already signed up to take part.

"Tap water and Polos are free all day, so people should not be scared to come in," added Holly.

Themed days will include a DIY day, where guests are invited to take over running of the café and a health and safety day where visitors are given hair nets and plastic gloves.

There will also be a daily unhappy-hour between 6pm and 7pm each evening, when the milk trolley will be transformed into a cocktail trolley.

For more information about the project, see www.huntanddartoncafe.com

WORTH A WATCH

Mike's TV Film of the Week

THRILLER: NO COUNTRY FOR OLD MEN Film4 Sunday May 31, 1.20am

BY 2007, the Coen Brothers had started to wobble a bit. The Man Who Wasn't There was arty and empty, Intolerable Cruelty was funny but slight and got panned, and The Ladykillers was awful. Fans fretted. Then, following a three-year silence, a masterpiece – the writer/directors' third, after Miller's Crossing and Fargo.

But something had changed. One of the Coens' defining characteristics was the distance they kept from their characters – to the extent you could almost imagine them smirking at their fates. There's little of that in No Country For Old Men. There's still lashings of irony, of course, but there's also real pain. Not that you could mistake this for the work of anyone else.

The premise – innocent comes across ill-gotten gains and decides to keep them – is hardly original. It doesn't matter. Besides, Llewelyn Moss (Josh Brolin), is not the hapless out-of-their-depth type you usually get in these scenarios. He may not be a criminal, but he doesn't bat an eyelid when he happens upon the extremely bloody aftermath of a drug deal gone wrong. The drugs and the money – $2 million – are still there. He takes the money. He's a veteran of Vietnam (it's 1980), handy with a gun, and his measured way of doing things and laconic self-confidence are infectious – we believe him when he says he can look after himself. Up to a point, anyway, because we've already seen what he's up against.

The opening scene has Anton Chigurh (Javier Bardem) being arrested. He looks odd to start with, but a couple of minutes later, when he's using his handcuffs to strangle the deputy who arrested him, he looks demonic. He is after the money and his method of looking involves a lot of killing. Which, as the bodies start to pile up, brings us to the third major character in the film, Sheriff Ed Tom Bell (Tommy Lee Jones). Middle-aged, and a lawman nearly all his adult life, Bell is sickened, saddened and baffled by the evil things men do. His is the voice we hear at the start, and he is the wounded heart of the movie. Jones gets right inside him. Brolin is excellent as the half-smart Moss, and Woody Harrelson is as good as ever playing another professional chasing the cash. But the eye-catching (and then some) turn comes from Bardem. The first time I watched the film I thought he was too outlandish for a professional killer (even the doziest witness would have no trouble remembering him). But on a second viewing, it's clear Chigurh has to be played like that. Because he's scarcely a man at all. He's an angel of death.

IN DANGER:
Dwayne
Johnson to the rescue in San Andreas

Released at cinemas this week

DISASTER MOVIE SAN ANDREAS (12A, 114 mins)

THE San Andreas Fault, which runs for more than 800 miles through California, gives way, triggering a magnitude nine earthquake that decimates the west coast.

Search and rescue helicopter pilot Chief Ray Gaines (Dwayne Johnson) takes to the air to hunt for survivors including his estranged wife Emma (Carla Gugino), who has filed for divorce so she can pursue a new relationship with wealthy real estate developer Daniel Reddick (Ioan Gruffudd).

Reunited in unimaginable tragedy, Ray and Emma head from Los Angeles to San Francisco to save their daughter Blake (Alexandra Daddario), who has joined forces with a handsome British visitor called Ben (Hugo Johnstone-Burt) and his 11-year-old brother Ollie (Art Parkinson) to survive the devastation.

Just when it seems that the worst is over for the Gaines family, a doom-saying professor (Paul Giamatti) at California Institute of Technology reveals that a bigger earthquake is on the way that will be felt on the east coast and cause a massive tsunami.

COMEDY: SEARCH PARTY (15, 93 mins)

SCOT Armstrong, screenwriter of The Hangover Part II and Road Trip, makes his directorial debut with this raucous, booze-fuelled comedy.

Nardo (Thomas Middleditch) confides to his two buddies Jason (TJ Miller) and Evan (Adam Pally), that he is nervous about his upcoming wedding to sweetheart Tracy (Shannon Woodward).

The lads attempt to allay Nardo's nerves with a bachelor party awash with drugs and alcohol.

By the time the groom-to-be staggers to the church, he is in no fit state to tie the knot and Tracy leaves him standing at the altar and heads to Mexico alone on their honeymoon.

Nardo gives chase, but he is carjacked and has to telephone Jason and Evan for help. They drive across the border into Mexico to collect their friend and the three lads become embroiled in a series of painful misadventures that include encounters with a fierce Mexican drug lord (JB Smooove) and a casino performer with the stage name the Amazing Hugo (Jason Mantzoukas) and his sexy assistant (Krysten Ritter).

CRIME: THE CONNECTION (15, 135 mins)

OSCAR winner Jean Dujardin (The Artist) headlines this French crime drama directed by Cedric Jimenez, which attempts to document the other side of the story of William Friedkin's 1976 classic, The French Connection.

Tenacious magistrate Pierre Michel (Dujardin) relocates from Metz with his loyal wife Jacqueline (Celine Sallette) to the port city of Marseille in the south.

A mafia thug called Gaetan Zampa (Gilles Lellouche) has the entire city in a vice-like grip including the legal system, which seems powerless to stop Zampa's reign of blood-spattered terror.

Regardless of the threat to his life, Michel resolves to bring down Zampa and restore law and order to the streets, but his prey's organised crime empire is vast and Michel will have to fight some of his battles alone.

A life lesson from LENNON

DANNY COLLINS

DRAMA/COMEDY/ROMANCE. (15) 106 mins

Director: Dan Fogelman.

Al Pacino, Annette Bening, Bobby Cannavale, Jennifer Garner, Christopher Plummer, Giselle Eisenberg, Melissa Benoist, Josh Peck, Katarina Cas, Brian Smith.

A caption at the beginning of writer-director Dan Fogelman's cliché-riddled yet uproarious comedy reveals there is a germ of fact buried beneath the tears and cloying sentiment.

"The following is kind of based on a true story. A little bit."

The seed of Fogelman's script was British folk singer Steve Tilston, who received a supportive fan letter from John Lennon, more than 25 years after the death of the former Beatle.

The handwritten missive, penned in 1971, advised the then 21-year-old Tilston to cling to his dreams because "being rich doesn't change your experience in the way you think".

Lennon added his telephone number and invited Tilston to call for advice.

Fogelman repurposes this cruel twist of fate as the catalyst for an ageing singer-songwriter's belated redemption in Danny Collins.

Tales of triumph against musical adversity litter the Hollywood Hills and are warmly received by Oscar voters, most recently in 2009 when Jeff Bridges won a golden statuette for his portrayal of a fading country music star in Crazy Heart.

Al Pacino delivers a similarly show-stopping turn as the irascible showman of the title, who sacrificed his artistic integrity years ago at the altar of commercial success.

For a birthday present, straight-talking manager Frank Grubman (Christopher Plummer) presents Danny with a note from Lennon that makes the singer-songwriter realise he has squandered his talent.

"I haven't written a song in 30 years. I'm a joke," concedes Danny.

So he ditches his trophy girlfriend (Katarina Cas), cancels the remaining dates of a greatest hits tour and heads for the nearest Hilton to rediscover his artistic mojo.

Hotel manager Mary Sinclair (Annette Bening) catches his roving eye, but steadfastly refuses his amorous overtures.

When Frank eventually catches up with his superstar client, he is pleasantly surprised by the object of Danny's affection.

"She's lovely," agrees Frank.

"And age-appropriate," dryly retorts Danny.

Thus Danny begins to compose songs again and he summons the courage to rebuild bridges to his estranged and embittered son Tom (Bobby Cannavale), who has a pregnant wife (Jennifer Garner) and a needy daughter (Giselle Eisenberg) to protect from celebrity-tainted ghosts of the past.

Danny Collins strums a familiar tune and as existential crises go, the lead character's is relatively brief and painless, but the on-screen rapport between Pacino, Bening and Plummer is irresistible.

"You're a huge dinner tease," twinkles Danny after Mary shoots down one of his cheesy chat-ups.

Plot revelations involving Cannavale's working-class provider are emotionally manipulative, but it's difficult to hold back tears when the ensemble cast plays these archetypes with such gusto.

Fogelman's picture is a guilty pleasure: a slick cover version of previous journeys of self-discovery that were undoubtedly more soulful but seldom more entertaining.

Mary shares her favourites

Mary Berry is cooking up a storm on her new TV show, Absolute Favourites. Here, she chats to Kate Whiting about simple ingredients and cooking with family Over eight decades, Mary Berry has seen food fads come and go. And the latest one – kale – she deals with in typically firm fashion.

"No, I don't like it and I see it everywhere. I grew a new kale, which was rather big and a dark colour, and it looked so pretty in the garden. Then I started to cook it and it was so strong and bitter. I know it's good for us, but I'd prefer to grow land cress, or something a little bit different."

But Berry – who grew up with rationing, turned 80 in March and has written more than 70 cookery books since the late Sixties – is softer on other 'new' ingredients, including the basil she grows in the garden of her beautiful Buckinghamshire home.

"When I trained and when I was a housewife, I automatically used dried herbs. You couldn't get fresh ones in a supermarket, you could grow them, but people didn't know quite how to do it."

"Basil was something you only got in France, and now we sow basil in the garden in May and we've got it in the garden from late June onwards. We make our own pesto. Things have certainly changed, and this is the joy of new ingredients. I can remember when butternut squash was new, and we all thought, 'Butternut squash?!' But we love it now."

"We also grow fennel," adds Berry, who makes a fennel slaw in her latest book, Absolute Favourites, which accompanies her new BBC Two show.

"My husband says, 'What are you putting fennel in? We didn't have it [as children], my mother didn't do it!' I say, 'Hard luck, you're going to have it!'"

"I really enjoy fennel, I've worked out how to cook it. People say it tastes of aniseed, but it doesn't; if you cook it, it's just the most beautiful vegetable. If you finely slice it and marinate it as the base of the salad, it gives the most beautiful flavour, you've just got to convert people to it."

"But I'm never going to convert them to kale because I think it will come and go, personally. There are certain things I will not do, because I don't like it myself."

She's certainly not a fan of deep fat frying either – "every chef's programme, they wheel in this machine, but at home, you do it on the cooker and it's dangerous" – but she gets her fill of chips when she goes out ("usually other people's"), and cooks oven chips at home for her five grandchildren when they visit, which makes her own children admonish her with an "Oh Granny!"

Her grandchildren appear in the BBC Two series, Mary Berry's Absolute Favourites. Her 12-year-old twin granddaughters, Abby and Grace, make biscuits, while her grandsons are put to work on a pasta bake.

"I've learned you don't have two stirring at the same time! I gave them their own jobs, I said, 'You make sauce, you cook the pasta', so they're separate, because boys will be boys!"

Food and family have always gone together for Berry, who married husband Paul in 1966 and had three children, Thomas, Annabel and William, who sadly died when he was just 19.

"I'm very lucky to have family and there's nothing better than cooking with children – there's no happier way of keeping children amused than teaching them," she says.

For all her TV success over the years, including most recently with The Great British Bake Off, Berry still likes to think of herself as a "family cook, with all the problems that everyone else has".

"I've had failures – I've used salt instead of sugar, I've had cakes going down in the middle, but that's good, because then we can commiserate!"

As for her absolute favourite meal, she loves nothing more than a nice plate of potted shrimps.

"If ever I was on my own, I would have one of my son's hens' eggs, some really good bread and some potted shrimps, which I would warm through with butter and a bit of spice, on toast. Those are the sort of things I like."

YOUR STARS WITH

ARIES MARCH 21 - APRIL 20

There are some really exciting aspects to your chart this week, which can help you to succeed where before you have failed. Don't try to do more than you can or admire in your work as attention to detail is everything. Someone you used to be is about to fall from their pedestal. You'll be surprised who it is too. Ring now so I can tell you more about your exciting future.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 348 66p per minute

TAURUS APRIL 21 - MAY 21

Something you were about to give up on starts to show signs of success and you no longer feel the need to fit in with others, but have the confidence to make your own plans. Emotions work overtime on Friday when you need to be careful not to believe everything you hear. Act on what you see only and not what you hear. Ring now to find out why this is such an exciting year ahead.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 349 66p per minute

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21

It's time to put your own needs and desires to the fore Gemini, as you've been making sacrifices for others for far too long now. What you thought to be a promise in business could have been merely a suggestion, so have a backup plan if you want your week to go as you planned. Doing what needs to be done yourself should be your first choice. Ring now to hear what is occurring above.

"Don't Be Fooled by Multi Branches"

Many of our clients tell us that when considering agents with a view to selling their home, they were tempted to use an agent that has several other branches. They were told that more branches equals more buyers, which on the surface sounds appealing. But don't be fooled. The "more-buyers/faster sale" claim is standard practice among multi-branch estate agencies. However, the reality can be quite different, with vendors being given false hopes at best, and a lack of accountability at worst.

Firstly, most negotiators are targeted on their sales, and whilst their managers may encourage them to "share" their buyers with their sister branches, many would rather swim in a pool of piranhas than let one of their buyers go to another agent - even within the company!

Secondly, the wider a buyer's search area, the less chance there is of them buying in yours. If a buyer registers in a particular branch, it suggests they want to buy in the area covered by that branch - not in the area covered by another branch. Being offered "out of scope" locations can annoy purchasers who feel they are being "palmed off". If they are indeed looking in another area, then the efficiency of the internet will certainly ensure that they are also registered in that area as well.

Estate Agency is an intensely local business. We enjoy a great supply of buyers and work extremely closely with those whom we know are really serious about buying in the Harlow, Old Harlow, Church Langley, Newhall and surrounding villages.

Why not call us on 01279 418888 to find out how we can help you maximise your own sale - without any unfounded claims! And our straight-talking sincere advice is free!

Scrap Cars

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

End of the road? Get over it and move on with your local ATF:

Essex County Council

(Unnamed footpath running through underpass below First Avenue, Harlow) (Temporary Prohibition of Use) Order 2012

Notice is hereby given that the above Order made by Essex County Council, under s14 of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984, has been continued in force with the consent of the Secretary of State for the Department for Transport until 11 December 2016.

Effect Of The Order: To temporarily close that length of Unnamed footpath running through underpass below First Avenue in the District of Harlow from a point 90 metres east of junction with Park Lane proceeding north in an anticlockwise loop beneath First Avenue for its entirety to a point on the south side of First Avenue 54 metres east of Park Lane and 110 metres east of Park Lane.

An alternative route has been provided by the signalled pedestrian crossing immediately to the west of the junction between First Avenue and Park Lane.

The Order came into effect on 11 June 2012 and is required for the safety of the public and workforce while works for the realignment of underpass approach ramp due to the residential development is undertaken.

Liz Burr, Head of Network Management, County Hall, Chelmsford

Notice of Confirmation of an Order (other than an Acquisition Extinguishment Order) Highways Act 1980 – Section 119 Footpath 183 Harlow, in the District of Harlow Public Path Diversion Order 2015

The above Order, which was confirmed on 18th May, 2015 under section 119 of the Highways Act 1980, will divert a part length of public Footpath 183 in the District of Harlow as shown on the Order map contained in this Order. The effect of the Order will be to divert a part length of Footpath 183 Harlow, (which is the Harlowbury House access drive which shares vehicular use) from where it terminates at the junction between Old Road and Priory Avenue, to an alternative route further away from the historic Grade 1 listed Harlowbury Chapel to the south along the field boundary for walkers only to where it will terminate further along Old Road. A small section of path at the east end will be diverted from the adjacent field owned by the Marigold Trust. The Footpath is to exit the field 10 metres west of the current stile with a gap of 1.8 metres cut through the existing rails of the fence.

A copy of the Order and the Order Map have been placed in and may be seen free of charge at Harlow District Council Offices at Civic Centre, The Water Gardens, Harlow CM20 1WG and at the Chelmsford Public Library, Market Road, Chelmsford during normal working hours. Copies of the Order and Order map are available on request from the Chelmsford Library at a charge.

The new route will come into effect on 15th June, 2015. However, if any person aggrieved by an order, wants to question its validity, or that of any provision contained in it, on the ground that it is not within the powers of the Highways Act 1980, as amended, or on the ground that any requirement of the Act, as amended, or of any regulation made under the Act has not been complied with in relation to the Order, he or she may, under paragraph 2 of Schedule 2 to the Act as applied by paragraph 5 of Schedule 6 to the Act, within 6 weeks from 28th May, 2015 make an application to the High Court.

Lois fourth at regional finals

TEN-year-old Lois Hale gave an impressive performance for Harlow Gymnastics Club at the East Regional final in Ipswich.

Competing against elite gymnasts from Suffolk, Hertfordshire, Norfolk, Cambridgeshire and Essex, Lois (pictured above) represented Essex at this event.

This was after receiving the overall bronze medal at the county championships.

She also already trains with the Essex county squad.

Competing in the East Regional final grade 4 age ten/11 event, Lois narrowly missed out on a medal position and finished in fourth place overall with a score of 63.10.

She placed third on vault, third on range and conditioning, fourth on floor, fifth on bars and seventh on beam.

Head girls coach and club co-owner Gordon Mitchell said: "She did really well and would have won a medal if she hadn't had an unlucky fall on the beam."

Club grant's a real knockout

HARLOW Amateur Boxing Club has bagged some new weight training equipment thanks to a sporting grant from UK Power Networks.

The power company has given the club a £250 grant as part of its Team Sport Award programme.

The firm donated the money following an application from Harlow-based engineer Simon Clark, whose son trains at the gym in Momples Road.

Clark said: "My involvement began when my son started training there, but now I train there myself and drive the juniors to various competitions and gym shows that take place quite regularly."

"The club is delighted to have this money and have bought equipment which can be used by all club members – men, women and children."

Holders beaten

CANONS Brook Golf club's Leslie Wood Trophy team will hope to keep up their winning run when they take on Langdon Hills GC in the quarter-final.

The team from the Harlow club produced a fantastic display to defeat Leslie Wood holders Chigwell.

Canons Brook won convincingly 9.5 to 5.5.

The match, held at Canons Brook, was closer than the scoreline suggests.

The morning foursomes matches were level and it all came down to the singles matches in the afternoon, with Canons Brook fighting off a strong Chigwell side to take the win.

Canons Brook will look to reach the last four when they host Langdon Hills on June 7.

Colts win cup in first season in new league

LANGLEY Colts U11s secured the Chelmsford & District League Cup after a 3-1 victory against Intersports Blues.

The final was held at Ryman League club Witham Town FC's ground.

Making the final victory more of an achievement was the fact that it was the Harlow club's first season in the Chelmsford & District League.

Manager Jason Rogers explained: "We went into it slight underdogs having lost twice in the league previously against Intersports."

Langley went 1-0 up through Morgan Arnold.

Intersports equalised but Langley went 2-1 up just before half-time through Harrison Falco's 25-yard free-kick.

Morgan netted a third goal just a few minutes from the end of the second half.

The team consists of: Harrison Falco, Joe Edwards, Owen Longhurst, George Edgeworth, Harry Bishop, Ryan Heath, Morgan Arnold, Louis Rogers, Oliver Howard, Will Brazier, Arley Barker and Louis Thompson.

International in the Mick of time

TOP MAN: Taekwondo instructor Mick Sullivan

Instructor's top grade

Taekwondo

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

AFTER four years of hard work and training, Harlow and Sawbridgeworth Taekwondo supremo Mick Sullivan has become an international instructor.

He completed his fourth dan at the T.A.G.B (Taekwondo Association of Great Britain) Academy in Bristol.

Sullivan (50) had to perform in front of the T.A.G.B committee consisting of various seventh, eighth and ninth dan to the high standards set out by the association.

Having to first demonstrate old patterns from previous grades, Sullivan moved into top gear to perform the grading patterns.

Obliterating

Technique, focus and power were the main elements for the day delivered by the instructor and applauded while obliterating the boards in the breaking room.

Moving on to sparring techniques, and then free sparring, showing great control to a smaller opponent, the instructor demonstrated the courtesy and respect all practitioners should show to each other when performing.

Sullivan said: "It has been a long and gruelling four-year journey since third dan, training all round the country, in Jersey and Spain."

"I have been training with many different high grade instructors of which I owe them many thanks, especially, Stuart Penn, Terry Reid, Howard Douglas and Miles Lutwyche."

Sullivan first took up the sport 15 years ago.

He has been based at the Harlow Taekwondo at Paringdon Sports club off Southern Way all of that time.

Sessions are held Mondays, Wednesdays and Sundays. He has been an instructor there for six years.

Sullivan also runs the Sawbridgeworth Taekwondo, which is based at Leventhorpe Leisure Centre.

This takes place on Thursdays and Saturdays.

"Who knows you may be the next Taekwondo champion?" added Sullivan.

Lions pride of Paringdon after silverware

PARINGDON Youth Lions U9s were victorious at the Buckhurst Hill Youth FC Tournament.

The Lions played five tough group games in the morning, winning three and drawing two, giving them 11 points which was enough to top the group and progress to the final.

In the group stages the Lions managed to keep four clean sheets thanks to a great display from Kobi Roget in goal.

Fantastic free-flowing football which led to some great goals, especially strikes from Ben Seary and Freddie Corbett.

In the final the Lions were up against Tiger Orange Socks.

The sides had previously drawn 1-1 earlier in the day. The Lions took an early lead through Corbett's great strike into a top corner.

But the Tigers levelled soon after to put the game back in the balance.

Paringdon went back in front through an own goal, before Ross Pike slotted in for 3-1.

Tigers were awarded a penalty to make for an exciting finale. Late on, Max Arnold made it 4-2, before Pike scored direct from a free-kick to wrap up a 5-2 win.

Paringdon Youth Lions U9s coach Gregg Pike said: "It was a great day, the boys thoroughly enjoyed themselves and deserved their winners' medals and although at nine-years-old it's all about their development, it's great to see them with a medal and smiles on their faces."

"There were some standout performances on the day especially from Kobi Roget in goal but all round a fantastic team effort and a great bunch of boys who love playing football."

Attacking field fails to secure victory | Owls win's a hoot for Roy HARLOW Town seconds failed to take the final two wickets of opponents Belhus as they drew their Shepherd Neame Essex League match at the weekend.

Town skipper Ben Eversden lost the toss and, inserted, they posted 199.

It was left to sixth man Shreerag Radhakrishnan (16) to marshal the tail with a patient 37 as Town finished just a run short of two extra batting points.

Town then threw caution to the wind and set an attacking field from the start as Eversden, Dan Baldwin, Bilal Ali and Radhakrishnan tore through the top order.

The highlight of the day was 15-year-old George Richardson's incredible diving catch at square leg from a full blooded pull shot.

But Belhus (123-8) held on to deny Town.

The Harlow Town third XI (264-8) also drew their match with Old Souths (179-6).

Jake Messenger (30), skipper Johan Cloete (135) and an equally impressive 80 from Bobby Blunt, made up the bulk of the total.

In reply, Old Souths never got going and the game petered out.

Paul Morrell bowled superbly and deserved more than his figures of 1-29.

Wickets were shared between Cloete, Taylor Wood and James Hardcastle.

The Harlow Town fourth team hosted Basildon and Pitsea.

The visitors won the toss and elected to bat.

Tight bowling from Tristan Rees (2-28) and Dylan Andrews (2-33), Nick Teale (3-16) and Devin Andrews (1-17) ensured the visitors were bowled out for 138 off 45 overs.

In response, Town batted sensibly with Teale (42 not out) and Dave Bailey (25 not out), steering the side to a comfortable win with 17 overs to spare and for the loss of just three wickets.

ALEX ROY triumphed in the 36th annual Harlow Darts Owls Open at the GPCA in Harlow.

Roy (Ace of Harts) beat Diogo Portela 5-0 in a one-sided final to take the £300 prize money.

Portela, who won £150 for second spot, had only dropped four legs all day, with Roy going one better, dropping just three.

Roy beat Ricky Howard 3-0 in the first round, before a 3-0 second-round victory over Joe Pearce and a 4-1 quarter-final success against Darrell Claydon and a 5-2 win against Robbie Turner secured a final spot.

Portela beat Vernon Walsh 3-0 in the first round and George Killington 3-1 in the second. He then beat John Costigan 4-2 in the last eight and won his semi-5-1 against Chris Gower.

Sister acts on Naomi's World ambition

THE Harryman sisters are certainly spurring each other on as they target success.

Harlow Athletic Club member and heptathlete Naomi Harryman competed in the World Youth Championships trials in Bedford.

Her sister Beth (14), a student at St Mark's School in Harlow, enjoyed a brilliant multi-event debut and has qualified to represent Essex in the East Regional Championships.

Meanwhile, Naomi missed out in her second attempt to get the qualifying standard to represent Great Britain in the World Youth Championships in Colombia this summer.

She still won the long jump and javelin sections of the heptathlon.

She is now looking forward to competing in her first ever senior competition next weekend, after qualifying for the Bedford International Games in the long jump event.

She will compete against athletes from all over the world.

Inspired by her sister, Beth entered the Essex Schools' pentathlon trials at Brentwood School.

Despite never having competed in a hurdles race before or in an 800m race she competed brilliantly, clocking 13.3sec in the 75m hurdles, throwing 8.70m in the shot put, leaping 1.52m in the high jump and 4.95m in the long jump, before running 2min 57.8sec in the 800m.

This gave her a total points score of 2560.

She will now represent Essex in the East Regional Schools Combined Events Championships in June at Chelmsford.

On the same day Naomi will represent the Hertfordshire Schools team in the senior women's heptathlon.

Gymnasts win competition

A HARLOW primary school gymnastics team were victorious in a district competition.

Water Lane Academy's budding young gymnasts were winners at the Harlow Sports Partnership competition for Key Step One.

This was held at Harlow Gymnastics Club, based at Summers Leisure Centre.

The team had to perform a group routine to music and a solo vault.

They will now represent Harlow Schools at the county finals at Basildon Sporting Village on June 30.

Gridley in deadly form but Jones offers hope

Youngster's impressive display keeps Harlow upbeat

Shepherd Neame Essex League, Division One
Harlow 201
Southend-on-Sea 202-7

Southend won by three wkts
HARLOW suffered a three-wicket defeat at Southend-on-Sea on Saturday.

Rehman Ahmed's men were 115-2 but Michael Gridley put paid to Harlow's hopes of a second successive victory with fantastic bowling which accrued seven wickets for 82 runs in his 18 overs.

Unbeaten Southend are top with three wins.

After the early departure of Hafiz Afzal (13), skipper Rehman and 15-year-old Alan Jones came together for a second-wicket stand which put on nearly 100 runs.

Jones hit 64 runs in 139 balls, including six fours which will fill the youngster with confidence after a couple of single-digit scores in his first two games since stepping up to the first team.

Rehman scored a rapid 37 from just 42 balls.

But they were both removed by Gridley.

Aside from Antony Webb's 38 and Nino Calvino's 14, none of the other visiting batsmen made double figures as a Gridley-inspired Southend wrapped up the Harlow innings for 201.

In response, Southend wickets fell at regular intervals.

Nick Baxter dismissed opener Matthew Wagstaff for four, while Mustanser Meraj claimed the next wicket after a flying one-handed diving catch at gully by Ahmed Khawaja.

Lewis Aldred was then brought into the attack and took a wicket in his first over, with opener

Numan Khan caught by wicket-keeper Jones.

The fourth-wicket partnership between Phil Gray (68) and Joe Robbins (56) was key.

Ross Vasani (2-44) took these two wickets.

Aldred (2-45) and Meraj (2-23) also chipped in with two wickets apiece but Southend finished on 202-7.

Harlow, who still picked up 11 bonus points, are away to Shenfield in the league on Saturday.

Hawks' final sting at The Hive

HARLOW Town U12s completed a memorable season by winning the Mid-Herts Rural Minors League U12 Cup against Cuffley at Barnet's plush The Hive stadium.

The team is managed by ITV This Morning co-presenter Jeff Brazier.

He said: "I'm incredibly proud of the cup win, but equally so for the progression through three divisions - fourth through to second in just one season. It really has been the dream end to a fantastic year for the boys."

Just one goal separated the teams.

A through ball from Harrison Leathers put Charlie Milsom in and he slipped the ball through to Harry Horsley.

Harry's first time ball fed striker Bobby Brazier and he hit it first time into the top right corner of the net, which gave the Cuffley keeper no chance.

The last 15 minutes was a nervy period for the Harlow players and supporters.

Cuffley tried to find an equaliser and from a corner,

Harlow keeper Tyler Whiting tipped an effort over at the near post.

This chance was the sole effort for the Herts side as Hawks' excellent defending kept them out.

LADY CHAIRMAN MAKES HISTORY

Rams hand top role to women's team player/manager

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TRACEY LEE has spoken of her bold vision for Harlow Rugby Club after becoming the first woman chairman in its 60-year history.

The manager of the Rams women's team and experienced player and girls coach, is also thought to be the first woman rugby club chairman in Essex.

Of the entire Eastern Counties, it is thought that only Lowestoft & Yarmouth president Yvonne Titterton, who play in Harlow's men's first team division, has held this prestigious top role before.

Lee (43), of Milwards, has been vice-chairman at Harlow for the last two years, but has now replaced previous chairman Alan Brooking.

She was nominated by the club's executive committee and was approved at the Rams' annual meeting earlier this month.

Exciting

Cornwall-born Lee, who joined Harlow nearly 12 years ago, takes over at one of the most exciting times in the club's history.

She will help spearhead and oversee the move into the million-pound plus new home at Latton Farm, as the Rams say goodbye to their run down old hub in Elizabeth Way.

Lee said: "It's a really exciting time. We have got 18 months before we move, so it's really exciting."

"I did feel quite honoured. It's a traditional men's club, seeped in history."

"To be asked to do this is quite amazing. To start with I was saying 'I haven't been around long enough, I don't know the history, I don't know where you've come from'. But I was told that's a good thing. I can bring fresh ideas and try to bring it forward into the DIVING IN: Tracey Lee will take very much a hands-on role to her time as Harlow Rugby Club chairman 21st century."

Since Lee has been vice-chairman she has driven up membership, which has increased by 30 per cent in the last two years.

Lee, who has worked for Hertford brewer McMullen & Sons as an IT systems administrator for more than 15 years, said: "I guess as time has gone on I've got more involved with the running of the club. Three years ago I went on to the club exec as a members' representative. Two years ago I was asked to be vice-chairman."

"And Alan Brooking has now decided to step down. Both Alans [Brooking and club president Alan Price] asked me if I would take it on."

"They wanted to see someone younger. They liked my organisational skills and my admin skills."

"They see it as something fresh, especially now we have got the move approved."

"They are hoping that I can kind of lead that. I kind of see my role as preparing the club for its move.

"Alan Brooking is still concentrating on the move and on the building and the structure. I need to concentrate on the people."

"Our [Ram Gorse] club is very run down. Attracting people, whether it's players, families, everyone to the club is quite hard."

"As time has gone on membership keeps dwindling and we can't afford to lose any more players. So I need to attract new players and retain the ones we've got."

Price paid tribute to Lee and knows she will galvanise the club.

He said: "She has got the Midas touch. She is so good at anything she does."

"This is irrespective of gender. She has got it by merit. The difficult thing was persuading her to do it."

Lee will remain as chairman for a year initially, but is expected to continue beyond this which should be rubber stamped at next year's annual meeting.

Sting in tail as Ramya ends leaders' run

Shepherd Neame Essex
League, Division Two

Belhus	217-6
Harlow Tn	154-9
Match drawn

EXPERIENCED Ramya Uphadhyay's outstanding batting helped Harlow Town cling on with one wicket left to draw with Division Two leaders Belhus.

Debutant Alfie Elston endured a baptism of fire as he held out alongside Uphadhyay on Saturday.

Elston faced 30 balls in total as he showed great passion and determination to grind out vital points for the newly-promoted Phoenix Park men.

Upon winning the toss on a slightly damp wicket, Gladwin inserted the opposition, who had yet to lose a wicket in their two league victories this season.

Calver induced a loose shot from captain Danny Joyce (17), brilliantly caught at mid-wicket by the diving Matt Hurley.

But Joe Joyce and Michael Fogg built a quick partnership taking Belhus' total to 112.

The breakthrough came when spinner Uphadhyay forced Joyce to play on and one run later a run out stopped the visitors' charge in its tracks.

Town then picked up wickets at regular intervals with Elston bowling with good control and movement to finish with 1-20 off his six overs as Belhus finished on 217 off their 52 overs.

Town started their chase badly as Hurley (3) saw his middle stump uprooted and Joe Holland (0) left the very next delivery.

Ashley Alderson dug in along with Uphadhyaya to take the store on to 59, but the next five overs ended Town's bid to seal victory.

Four quick dismissals followed all to the same bowler (Daniel Dreher) as Alderson, Pat Yates, Gladwin, Charlie Coleman and Dan Farmer departed and Town crumbled from 59-2 to 76-7.

Uphadhyay expertly shepherded the tail of Owais Qasim and Elston, picking off the odd boundary and keeping the majority of the strike as he batted out six overs with Qasim and then 11 overs with Elston. Both Qasim and Elston showed their mettle with defiant knocks.

Uphadhyaya was dismissed with three overs left after a superb 77. This left Calver to join Elston and the pair showed great character to safely see out the remaining deliveries.

"Alfie was fantastic. It helped batting with Ramya, but he still had the composure and character to carry out the orders," said Gladwin.

New county record and PB for Solomon

MARK Hall School student Canaan Solomon set a new Essex county record time in the 800metres.

The 16-year-old (pictured left), who moved up to third in the UK U17 boys 800m rankings last month, is highly rated.

Competing at Chelmsford, he set a personal best time of 1min 52.5sec.

Burnt Mill student Kyesha Robinson was also at Chelmsford competing in the U15 girls' 300m. She clocked 42.22 which ranks her ninth in the UK in her age group.

Sidnie Ward won the U13 boys'

800m in 2:17 and also won the U13 boys' 200m in 27.7.

Zoe Benton triumphed in the U17 girls' 300m hurdles in 45.7. She is currently ranked number one in the UK for U17 girls.

All four athletes live in Harlow, but are members at Woodford Green & Essex Ladies.

Meanwhile, Harlow Athletic Club member Will Marklew clinched victory at the U18 British World Youth decathlon trial at Bedford and is seventh in the IAAF rankings. He will find out in June if he has qualified to represent GB in Colombia (more at www.harlowstar.co.uk).
